

Moe Thuzar

*Lead Researcher (Socio-Cultural), ASEAN Studies Centre
ISEAS-Yusof Ishak Institute*

Moe Thuzar is Lead Researcher (Socio-Cultural) at the ASEAN Studies Centre of the ISEAS-Yusof Ishak Institute. She is concurrently Fellow at the Regional Socio-Cultural Studies Programme and co-coordinator of the Myanmar Studies Programme at ISEAS. Prior to joining ISEAS, she headed the Human Development Unit at the ASEAN Secretariat. At ISEAS, she has co-authored “Myanmar: Life After Nargis” with Pavin Chachavalpongpun (ISEAS:2009), and “Do Young People Know ASEAN” with Eric Thompson and Chulanee Thianthai (ISEAS:2016). She co-edited “Urbanisation in Southeast Asia: Issues and Impacts” with Yap Kioe Sheng (ISEAS:2012). Moe has contributed extensively to compendia and edited volumes on ASEAN and on Myanmar. Under her ASEAN research, Moe monitors regional integration moves under the ASEAN Socio-Cultural Community. Her research focus for 2017-18 is on migration issues, and climate change/environmental cooperation in ASEAN. For Myanmar, Moe monitors Myanmar's ongoing transition issues, and was involved in advising Myanmar's ASEAN chairmanship in 2014. She is researching Burma/Myanmar's post-World War II diplomatic history for her PhD.
